100,000 PELMANISTS IN HIS MAJESTY'S NAVY AND ARMY.

150 ADMIRALS AND GENERALS.

"Of Great Value to me in Active Operations."
—A Major-General.

300,000 CIVILIAN ENROLMENTS.

PELMANISM continues its astonishing progress among all ranks and in every unit of the British fighting forces. There are now over 100,000 officers and men who have adopted the new movement, the list being headed by 150 ADMIRALS AND GENERALS.

Comment is almost unnecessary. From the early days of the war Pelmanism has increased in popularity until today it is regarded as an indispensable foundation for Naval and Military training; indeed, for success in any sphere of life. For many hundreds of officers it has proved to be the high road to promotion, and thousands of business and professional men and women openly testify to the untiring helpfulness of the Pelman Course.

Over and over again letters are received from all Fronts stating, in the simplest language, that promotion (and in many cases distinctions also) have been gained as a direct result of the Pelman Course.

PELMANISM AS BUSINESS AD.

Pelmanism continues to spread with astonishing rapidity, and every day brings fresh evidence of the tremendous enthusiasm with which all sections of the business community are adopting it.

Every woman knows that to be described as "pretty" is one thing; to be regarded as beautiful is quite another thing. The beauty that men admire is generally associated in their minds with luxuriant hair. A face that is merely pretty becomes beautiful when crowned with a fine head of hair. Healthy, glossy and abundant hair is, indeed, of paramount importance to a woman. Then why not have it?
